For instance, ing opened fire upon the rebel batteries received we see it declared that "the cordial reception universal credit, although, of course, the details given to Mr. James, late Queen's counsel, at the relative to the injuries inflicted upon the United New York Bar, is a circumstance which affects the whole status of that bar in Euglish professional estimation. Mr. Edwin James has been formally deprived of his professional rank in this country for reasons which, after ample and patient judicial inquiry by the bench of his inn, have satisfied a dignified and dispassionate tribunal that he is unworthy to practice in an English Court of Justice. Such a degradation is no light matter, and is not inflicted lightly. When Mr. James—on the bidding of a nobleman, whose name has been very properly kept from the public, but is perfectly well known in legal circles—resigned the representation of Marylebone, and retired from the clubs of which he was a member, his social fall was complete. But the professional seal remained to be put upon his sentence. That seal has been put, and Mr. James is now debarred." To which the Liverpool Times replies: "The trial, if it were one, was conducted with closed doors, and appears to have been as inscrutable as the doings of the inquisition. gagement at Port Reyal. This officer, in whose the news reached England of the infamous opening of the war at Fort Sampter, Leaving his ship in the Waterloo docks, he hastened home acting master of one of the gunboats he was wounded in the battle; but as soon as the tourniquet had been applied to his leg he demanded that he should be taken on deck again, where, without a sigh or groan escaping him, he witnessed the magnificent ending of the contest, The only shot that took effect was the one that has made him a cripple for life. But he says that 'that shot," which he has preserved, "is priceless, and that he will hand it down to his children as a suggestion to them, if they should ever one if a future occasion should demand another

PAINFUL OCCURRENCE .-- We regret to learn that Lieut. Hickman, an estimable citizen of Lexi gton, lost his life at the Fair Grounds near that city on Wedne dsy under peculiar circumstances. There had been a fire within the enclosure, and many visitors had been permitted to pass the lines of Col. Grigsby's Guards, the regiment being quartered there. When the visitors attempted to leave the grounds, however, they were required to give the countersign, a precaution which had not been observed when the party entered.

Thus Lieutenant Hickman was stopped by quartered there. When the visitors attempted the sentry, who demanded the password. Mr. the sentry, who demanded the password. Mr. Hickman expressed his ignorance of the word, when the sentinel asked him whether he was a Union man or a secessionist, a precaution which would seem unnecessary, as Mr. H. wore the U. S. uniform. SUBSTITUTE FOR COFFEE. - A writer for the papers gives the following for the preparation of a substitute for coffee: substitute for coffe:

Take sweet po'atoes, cut them fine enough to dry conveniently, and when dried, to grind conveniently in a coffee-mill, dry them by the fire or store, at this season of the year, or by the sun when that will do it; grind and use, mixed with coffee in such preportions as you like. Some of my neighbors omit half of the coffes; some more. All whom I have heard speak of it, say they like it as well; some like it better. One old inveterate coffee drinker told me he liked it better; and he is in circumstances not to need save the dime by denying himself of what he deems to be his conforts; moreover, he is not that way inclined. mystery.

RADWAY & CO., 23 JOHN STREET, New York. HOW OUR SOLDIERS SHOULD BE PREPARED TO FIGHT.
HEALTH AND DISCIPLINE.

Health and discipline are the most important ele-ments in an army to insure success. Discipline without ealth will prove as ineffectual as shot without powder lealth is the propelling force of the army, and is the ymbol of victory.

It is, therefore, of the greatest importance that the ystem of medication best adapted for the protection of oldiers against sickness, as well as that known to be he most speedy and effectual in restoring the sick to ealth, without regard to professional prejudice,

This is no time for medical martinets to quibble about ofessional dignity. All the dignity the profession can bring to bear will neither prevent sickness among the troops nor cure those afflicted. Our armies, to be sucessful, must be kept in a healthy condition; and the nost sure means of securing this desideratum is through the remedial powers of RADWAY'S READY RELIEF.

Experience has established the fact hat the treatment of calomel, quinine, and mercury in ses of fever and ague, typhoid fever, and other fevers of this class, is more injurious in camps than in private practice. When we take into consideration that canvas valls and exposure to heavy dews and the malaria from pools of water and damp grounds, prove but a poor shel-ter for the sick, we may readily conjecture that the enalties of mercurial and quinine treatment will, in he majority of cases, be exhibited in the form of rheunatism, neuralgia, pains and stiffness in the joints, encorgement of the liver, jaundice, yellow jaundice, dys onsia, pleurisy, coughs, colds, &c., which will cling to

There is an evil which our military commanders in Kentucky make serious complaints of, and which ought to cease at once. We allude to the improper information often given by subordinate officers and soldiers in communications to the newspapers. The readers of papers are of course anxious for intelligence from the army, and, if the papers circulated only in loyal sections, the publication of such intelligence might be not only inter esting but proper, but it is a well known fact, no matter how it is to be accounted for, that all our chief papers reach the rebel troops al most or quite as soon as they reach our own All of the papers of Nashville and Memphis give extracts from those of Louisville and Cincinnati every day. So all information given in relation to Federal strength and Federal Whereas, Major General Halleck, of the Westquested to direct Gen. Halleck to recall said order, or cause it to conform with the practice of the other Departments of the army.

This resolution, after debate, was laid on the table by a vote of 78 to 64, though it is proper to say that during the debate Col. Frank Blair, who is not reckoned a conservative, stated on the authority of Gen. Halleck that the order had been misconstrued, and contended that the order as understood and enforced by Gen. Halleck was not ebnoxious to the censure of Lovejoy and his friends. It should be said also that Col. Blair himself voted with the conservatives to lay the resolution on the table. Nevertheless, our friends at Washington regard the vote as virtually a test one, believing that it at least shows the radicals of the House to be in a minority, whether the minority be greater or less. In this belief we trust they are correct.

While on this subject we beg to call attention to the subjoined article from the New York Journal of Commerce. The article is they were found, to seize or blow up the vesseasonable and sensible:

The Abolition- Program.—The attention of conservative men should be especially directed to the indications at Washington. The details of the program of the Abolitionists are not all made public, but we are in possession of enough to show the principal designs. The President is known to have great confidence in General Moknown to have great confidence in General Mc-Clellan. That distinguished officer, heart and soul for the Union, is known to be sternly opposed tensions. But other nations, like ourselves, to all the schemes of the emancipationists, and especially to the cowardly policy which asks slave help and servile insurrection to aid the white armies of the North. A deliberate and violent of the seas. Let our President propose to all armies of the North. A deliberate and violent effort is now on foot to drive McClellan from his position. Fromont succeeds him in the order of rank, but it is proposed to put some one in over Fremont, although the admirers of the latter vise the various and somewhat loosely undergentleman oppose the scheme of outranking him, and hope to place him at the head of the Union armies. The next steps, always supposing the army does not disband and go home, are the bloody and brutal scenes of Southern insurrections.

The President is as firm as a rock against these

The President is as firm as a rock against these

No one nation has a right to object to such an

The President is as firm as a rock against these plans. He stands by McClelln, and is firmly sustained by him. But the Conservative sentiment of the country must speak out at once and sustain them both. The vote on the Halleck resolution last week was regarded as a test vote, showing that a mijority in the House of Representatives may be relied on to keep a conservative policy uppermest. This may, and we trust will, save us through the present session of Congress. But a hundred projects are on foot which are devised with skill and adroitness, to entrap members into their support. The voice of the are devised with skill and adroitness, to entrap members into their support. The voice of the nation ought not to be doubtful now. The Union Defence Committee in New York has spoken unanimously in favor of the Conservative policy. That Committee fully appreciate that the large sums which were placed in its hands by the city of New York and her merchants princes, were a trust, which they owe it to the donors to see shall not be perverted to abolition schemes. If any one doubts the sentiment of this city, let a subscription be started for a war of emancipation, and we should see the beggarly returns footed up and we should see the beggarly returns footed up by tens, instead of millions.

Let us stand by the President and McClellan. Union savers should now glory in their name. It is just eight month since that name was last used in derision, by men that are now professing to be friends of the Union while they deal deadly blows at the Constitution which have dead deadiy blows at the Constitution which makes the Union. Let us have a grand meeting of Union savers in New York, and it will be followed up throughout the country. The President should know that the nation is with him, and not with

The wisdom and policy of this suggestion cannot be doubted by any who comprehend the full import of the crisis. We hope the suggestion will be promptly acted on in the great rcial centre of the Union, and that the impulse given there will sweep with augmenting force throughout the whole loyal section of the nation, reproducing with even higher grandeur the sublime popular uprising inaugurated at the same place in April last under the echoes of the guns of Beauregard. A new uprising of the people is certainly needed,-an uprising which shall rescue clearly and permanently from the destroying clutch of the abolitionists the victory that we are ready to pluck from the secessionists. A new uprising is needed, and we be-

We are somewhat surprised to find even the Confederate commanders in the military department of East Tennessee announcing that ridge-burners and destroyers of railroad tracks are excepted from those pardonable and that all such will be tried by drum-head court martial and hung on the spot. The monstrous folly as well as atrocity of this annunciation is manifest when we consider that the Confederate troops, wherever they make their way throughout the country, are bridge-burners and destroyers of railroad tracks. Buckner and his men have destroyed, and gloried in destroying, bridges and railroad tracks and locks and dams i Kentucky; Price and McCullough and Thompson and their men have done the same thing wherever they have been able to make their way in Missouri; and Floyd and Wise and their men have done the same sort of work in Western Virginia. Cin. Gazette. The Gazette's inference here is a very silly on sequitur. Its silliness is transparent. Does he Gazette seriously conceive that the mere aying of armed hands on criminals by the Government constitutes a state of war? If it does, it is undoubtedly bound to acknowledge that the criminals who elicit such dealing are a belligerent power, for there can be no war without belligerents, any more than there can be a contract without contractors or a consequent without an antecedent. from Mr. John M. Harnaday, of Vienna, Scott county, Ind., who wishes us to make the following facts public: His son James Harnady, who was a volunteer in Capt. P. H. Jewett's company of the Twenty-second Indiana Volunteers, died of lung fever at Ottersville, Mo., on the 18th ult. He at once telegraphed to Capt. Jewett to have the remains sent to Vienna, Scott county, Ind. for interment. The father received information that the body of his son had been disinterred, and inst. The supposed remains came to hand in due | Shelby News of vesterday: time, and the "Indiana Legion" was notified that the funeral would take place at a given time. After Mr. H. had retained the body for several days, and all the necessary arrangements had een made for the funeral service, the coffin was opened and it appeared that the remains were not those of his son. The corpse was that of a person of twenty or twenty-five years of age, of slight frame, of light comp'exion and hair, having a bigh, intellectual forehead, with a single decayed front tco'h. The coffin was closed and secured, when the funeral proceeded, and the remains were at Clark's Chapel, Scott county, in the presence of five hundred persons, the Scott County Rangers doing the honors. THEATRE-Benefit of Mr. Booth .- The beautiful play of the Marble Heart will be produced this evening, with Mr. Booth as Raphaelle. He has been very successful in this character, and we are anxious to see him in it. He likewise appears in a petite comedy entitled "Too Much for Good Nature," something new here, but we depend upon Mr. Booth's good taste to anticipate that it will not draw upon our good nature, but rather contribute to our amusement. We hope to see a packed audience to-night.

MURDERED BY THE REBELS .- David Maxey, who lived about five miles from Hardyville and ten miles from Green river bridge, was killed in his own house by some of the Southern cavalry scon ing in that neighborhood, on Morday last. By means of such an organization as we propose it can be done. There is no use playing bopeep with traitors and tories. We hope the Legislature will attend to the passage of a law, so that such companies can be organized in the several counties, to be equipped and paid by the Government. [For the Louisville Journal.] ESOLUTIONS IN THE BOARD OF SCHOOL TRUSTEES—DEATH OF SIMMONS WATKINS, EEQ. At a meeting of the School Board, held last ening, the President ancounced the death of more Watkins, late a member of the Board, a the following language, after which a com-nittee was appointed to draw up resolutions ex-ressive of the sentiments of the Board:

Gentlemen of the School Board: The sad duty devolves upon me at this time of announcing to you the death of another member of our Board. Simmons Watkins is no more. He died yesterday at his residence, after a protracted illness, and I have called you together in order that you may take such action in regard to the majory of may take such action in regard to the memory of the deceased as you may deem proper.

To you, gentlemen, who have known him so long and well, I scarcely need say a word touching his character and usefulness in this Board, as well as in this community in which he has so long resided. An intimate acquaintance, extending through a period of fifteen years, enables me to say of him that he was a prompt, energetic, systematic business man, ardent in his friendship, bold and fearless in his character, yet kird and generous in his impulses, pursuing whatever he deemed to be right, with a dotermination that left no room to doubt his sincerity, and acted upon the principle that it is right to be honest, rather than that it is the best policy to be so.

By this dispensation of an all-wise and overruling Providence, this Board has met with a loss almost irreparable; for he was, from first to last, one of its most faithful, energetic, and competent members, and to his ability are we chiefly petent mombers, and to his ability are we chiefly indebted for the excellent system which he origi-nated, and which, under his management as Chirman of the Finance Committee, has been inducted with so much success and satisfaction. Thus again has death invaded our circle, and within two years has removed from us four of ou members. May the frequency of its occurrence remind us who survive that we, too, are rapidly passing away, and ever keep in remembrance that

The Senate resumed the unfinished report the Bank Committee, it being a bill for the benefit of the Commercial Bank of Kentucky, and the amendments of Mr. Grover. | The bill allows the bank to take its stock in payment of debts due bank and to resell it. One of the amendments Mr. Grover proposed to extend the same privile to all the banks in the State, and the other pr to all the banks in the State, and the other provides that the stock shall not be taken in payment of debts due the bank at less than its par value | The amendment requiring the stock to be received at par in payment of debts was rejected. The amendment of Mr. Grover extending the privilege to other banks was also rejected. The second section of the bill was stricken out, and amended by limiting its action to one year from and after its passage, and the bill, as amend BE READY. - The Shelby News says, and very

NEWS FROM THE SOUTH, &C. WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.

The Tory and Ministerial parties are vieing with each other in anti-American talk, the outs triving to get in and the ins striving to keep in. Seward has letters piled two feet high, contain ng advice touching the English question. The Government has intelligence of the arri al of additional troops from the South at Manassas, where the rebels seem to be tringing very available man.

The schooner Charity, chartered by Senator simmons, was seized under the express provisions of her license, which provides that she should ot touch any part of the coast South of Maryland under the penalty of the confiscation of said vessel.

No messenger came from Minister Adams, bu a despatch agent was sent as a special courier, the matter being deemed more important than it turned out to be. General Butler has arrived here.
Capt. Wilkes visited Congress to day and was rdially received. CINCINNATI, Dec. 19. The Commercial's Frankfort despatch says that dvices from Somerset state that yesterday morning at daylight General Schoepff, with all his ce, marched out to attack the rebal Zollicoffer n position on Fishing creek with 6,000 men and ome artillery. Schoepff's force consists of two fennessee regiments, Hoskin's Kentucky regiments, and the Seventeenth, Thirty-first, Thirty-ifth, and Thirty-eighth Ohio regiments, Stantart's Ohio and Hewett's Kentucky batteries of engage, four of which are rifed, four encounts ten guns, four of which are rifled, four smooth bores, and two Parrott guns. Zollicoffer has no wagons on this side of the river and but indifferent means of crossing. General Schoepff was confident of whipping him, with some hope of cipturing most of his men. The Tennesseeans led the column. It is probable that the battle tock place yesterday or to-day. POINT OF ROCKS, MD., Dec. 19. This morning a rebel battery of three guns and two hundred infantry commenced shelling Col. Grier's encampment. About twenty shells fell in the camp. The Twenty-eighth Ragiment's battery of two guns returned the fire, and in a short ime silenced theirs, driving back another gun coming to reinforce them. The rebels were driven were then turned on a point on the Virginia shore, where one hundred and fifty rebels were secreted, driving them out and killing and wound ing many. A letter from Owensville, Dec. 17th, reports, 000 rebels on Middle Creek, near Prestonsburg, and the reception of a letter from a rebel, saying that they intend wintering upon Beaver Creek, which heads near Sounding Gap.

The rebel force which was at West Liberty has left, taking away hogs, cattle, horses, and all other property that they could gather. The Joion men at Owensville, Mt. Sterling, and ther places, are organizing to meet any invaders randers.

Representative from Carter county, who left Catletsburg Monday evening, says that the report of the officers of the Collier, in to-day's Enquirer, that the rebels, numbering from six to seven thousand, attacked fifteen hundred Federal troops, and drove them out of Catletsburg, is not altogether correct, but he says that Col. Moore had to fall back to that place from Louisa in the face of a much superior force, which were within five miles of Louisa. The rebels had one thousand seven hundred well-armed mounted men, supposed to be under the notorious Jenkins, and a arge force of infantry—a part of Marshall's com-nand. He says that whole region is in great nand. He says that whole region is in great danger, and will be ravaged unless relief is sent.

A letter from Somerset, Dec. 16 (at night), says: "Nothing of note since last night. One regiment moved toward the river yesterday, and another moves to day. We understand the rebels are much alarmed, believing that they are cut off from below by troops from Columbia. We have them just where we want them and could be said to the public, that we are unable to state exactly what passed at the meeting. XXXVIITH CONGRESS - FIRST SESSION.

DAILY REVIEW OF THE MARKET. OFFICE OF THE LOUISVILLE JOUENAL, FRIDAY, Dec. 20, 1961. There was an excited demand resterday for gold, which we think the exigencies of the times do not war-rant. In some instances the bankers demanded % to ant. In some instances the manners demanded A to $\frac{1}{2}$ cent. premium, which was rather grudgingly paid. Castern exchange is somewhat brisker at $\mathcal{X}$ premium, the buying rate being at par. To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

CAMP MANSON, NEAR LEBANON, KY., Dec. 18.

As, through the columns of your paper, we have not made our whereabouts known, I take the liberty to advise you that our Brigade (2d Brigade, 1st Division Department Ohio) is still "in esse" near Lebanon, Kentneky, Was and the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 19.

An amphicheatre at the fair grounds, where a regiment of soldiers is encamped, was completely destroyed by fire last night. Loss from ten to twelve thousand dollars. During the excitement a sentinel shot Joel Hickman, First Lieutenant in Colonel Worley's cavalry, killing him instantly. "in esse" near Lebanon, Kentucky. We are confident that no brigade in the service can boast a better locality for encamping, more efficient discipline, and more thorough organization than ours. All the "arts and appliances" to make us effective in the great cause in which we are enlisted, are being brought to bear with telling eff.ct. No soldiers, and we say it in no feeling of self-adulation, are more ready than ours to go out and vindicate the ancient courage of

The 2d Brigade 1st Division Department Ohio s composed of the 10th Indiana, Colonel Manson, 14th Ohio, Colonel Steadman, 4th Kentucky, Colonel Fry, and 10th Kentucky, Colonel Harlan, all under the command of Colonel M. D. Manson, Colonel Commanding the Brigade.

The health of the brigade, with the exception of ours (the 10th Kentucky) is excellent. For more than a month we have had not less than two hundred disabled with the measles, a sort of unavoidable evil in the army. We are happy to say, that, from the morning reports, the condition of the regiment is rapidly improving, and very soon our entire regiment will be reported fit for duty. No efforts are wanting on the part of our gallant Colonel (Herlan) to render us as well drilled and as effective as any in the volunteer

Col. Manson is becoming popular as commander of this brigade, and a universal wish is expressed that he be made a Brigadier General He bas had experience. We remember that the flag of our Union was not dishonored when it waved over the brave men of his regiment amidst the thunder and carnage of Rich Mountain. He is emphatically a man of "pluck," and will know nothing of defeat if success is within the range of possibility. I am confident that he will make a better Brigadier General than any man now in Kentucky, unless it be Gen. McCook. Colonel M. is rapidly systematizing his brigade, and it will certainly play no unimportant part in the sad drama oft his mighty contest.

The Rolling Fork bridge, six miles from here, is being constantly guarded. Nothing is safe in these parts from the devil-like impudence of the traitors. The bridge has been guarded all the time by detachments from our regiment, until recently they were relieved by Captain Brown's company, of the 14th Ohio. To-day he is to be | relieved by Captain Davidson's company, of our

Day before yesterday our regiment was drilling in target-shooting for the first time. The men exhibited unusual skill in the use of the gun. At the distance of four hundred yards a detachment of "rebel" boards were cut to pieces by our balls At dinner we drilled magnificently on divers and sundry rabbits, killing quite a number. I am also happy to put to record that our Colonel and Mafor killed one each with navy pistols.

The ladies of Washington and Marion counties have locked with much care and solicitude to the wants of the soldiers of the 10th Kentucky. Quite a number of socks, shirts, and gloves have been contributed, and, when our hospitals were crowded with the sick, kind ladies came from all quarters to aid our excellent surgeons in relieving the suffering. Prominent among these were Mrs. Foster Ray, Mrs. C. Beeler, and Mrs. T. C. Woods, who have been unceasing in their attennot forgotten us.

The fair women of Simpsonville, Shelby county, recently sent to Dr. Atkinson a large bex containing bed sacks, quilts, etc., for the hospital. vote of 9 to 4. The 10th Kentucky has been very fortunate in the surgical department. Dr. Atkinson has no superior as a surgeon, and his assistant, Dr. Knott, has a bright career before him. Dr. Davenport, the Hospital Steward, has been unceasing in his efforts, assisted by Dr. Brown. Of course we do not know when we will take the field. All are ready and anxious to go when it shall please those in authority to order us. Respectfully, W.

A COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF .- There are certain exigencies which cannot be met by human effort, under the present limits of human powers and endurance. We have an illustration of this in the position prepared for our young Commander, the position prepared for our young Commander, whose most premising capacities and energies are in a manner paralyzed by our servile adherence to routine, and, as far as it concerns military organization, to a routine of the worst kind—that which governs England. That is the only country, except this, where—beside the Chief Ruler and the Secretary of War—there exists a General in-Chief of the whole army, who is now the Duke of Cambridge.

General in-Chief of the whole army, who is now the Duke of Cambridge.

The Governments of Europe wherein military organization is carried to perfection—as France, Prussia, and Russia—have no such grade in their respective military hierarchies. The Constable of old france disappeared more than two centuries ago; the Marshals commanded corps or armies, acting on a given theatre of war; but none or them ever commanded or commands the whole French army. Sometimes, during the Napoleonic wars, a Marshal had in the army under his command other Marshals—as Massens, in his campaign in Portugal had under him Soult and Ney; but another army at the same time operating paign in rotugal, has under him soult and Ney; but another army at the same time operating in Spain was wholly independent of him. It can be said that Napoleon himself never directed or combined the operations of an army of 600,000 men on distant fields of war. In 1809 his Italian army, under Eugene, co-operated and maneuvered towards the same point as the army of Garman, under the immediate command of of Germany under the immediate command of Napoleon; this aim was Vienna, or, at least, the central provinces of Austria; but both the armies scarcely reached 300,000 men. When Napoleon invaded Russia he directed the operations of the Russian army; the Marshals operating in Spain communicated with him through the Secretary of Mar. The army of the Allies in 1813 74 mes. War. The army of the Allies in 1813-14 was under the orders of Schwartzenberg, for this purpose created a Generalissimo; but the Allies had only one army opposed to them, that of Napoleon, and this on a theatre less extensive than is that from Fortress Monroe to the frontiers of Ohio and Kentucky.

that from Fortress Monroe to the frontiers of Ohio and Kentucky.

Pashkewitch, in military and civil power, was next to the Czar, was Vice King of Poland, and commander of the first Russiau army, situated in the western part*of the empire. He had nothing to do with the second army on the Turkish frontier, or in Caucasus, or with independent corps like the Guards, or the corps of Grenadiers. For all questions of military administration, organization, &c., Pashkewitch depended on the Secretary of War, as in France do to-day the various Marshals at the head of corps. For war or peace Marshals at the head of corps. For war or peace France has now no General-in-Chief and organ-izer of the whole army. She would not have such one, should she be forced simultaneously to such one, should she be forced simultaneously to carry on a war on the Rhine, on the Alps, and on the Pyrenees, while Louis Napoleon were obliged to remain in Paris.

To direct the operations of an army of from 150,000 to 200,000 men—such probably is that encircling to day Virginia—!axes—the—utmost mental, intellectual, and physical capacities and forces of any man, were he Alexander, Cæsar, or Napoleon. Besides, Alexander and Cæsar never had euch numbers under command. Perhaps no living general in Europe could satisfactorily fulfill such a gigantic task as, nevertheless, our worship of routine has heaped on our young commander, compelling him to take the direction of the various military departments into which the country ous military departments into which the country is divided. After all, the number of hours in the day for work and activity is limited. Gen. McClellan must daily attend to the business and staff of the Army of the Potemic, then to the staff of the General Army (660,000 men), then to the Adjutant-General's office. Where is the man whose intellectual powers would not be shivered. whose intellectual powers would not be shivered by thus cutting up is time and distracting the intensity of attention so absolutely needed for directing the operations of the Army on the Poto-

These multifarious occupations crowded upon the head of our Chief must retard the impetus of the head of our Chief must retard the impetus of his intellect, they are as leaden, heavy weights upon an eagle whose aspirations are wide and high. They prevent the commander from living in the camp, among the active army; from being every minute under the magnetic and inspiring influences of the genuin, active, military, and camp life. Frederick the Great was not exclusively educated for a soldier; nay, his youth was rather devoted to wholly different pursuits. It was in the camp, in the field, among his soldeirs, that his military genius was revealed to him and that his military genius was revealed to him and to the world in his immortal seven years' war. The atmosphere, the fume of the bivouac, evoked and inflamed the military genius of a Hannibal, an Alexander, a Casar, and a Napoleon.

Mrs. Douglas. - Very few people indeed have been placed in a more trying position and sacrifice more for the sake of the Union than has Mrs more for the sake of the Union than has Mrs. Douglas. She has persistently refused to entertain the proposition forwarded to her by a special messenger under a flag of truce from the Governor of North Csrolina, asking that the two sons of the late Senator Douglas be sent South to save their extensive estates in Mississippi from confiscation. TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

Washington, Dec. 18.

The Richmond and Norfolk papers of yesterday have been received. The Centreville Fairfax correspondent of the Richmond Despatch writer, Dec. 15: The fortifications around Centreville are now completed, and present quite a formidable appearance for field fortifications. They are built very strong, some of them being bastioned forts constructed in a manner that shows skilful engineering on the part of somebody—Gen. Beauregard, I presume. Some care seems to have been taken with the embrasures, which are built to combine convenience for handling the guns with the best method for protecting the men. They were very strongly built with hurdles and sand bags, and will stand a heavy cannonading before giving way. The arm ment of these forts having arrived from a place where they make most excellent guns, they have been put in position, and all that is now asken is for Gen. McClellan to bring on his Yankees. Different artillery corps are drilling in these batteries every day, and some have been proficient marksmen, while all have attained perfectly the range of any point where a hostile battery could be planted.

A series of resolutions has been adopted by the Legislature of Tennesses relating to the noeping. A series of resolutions has been adopted by the Legislature of Tennessee relating to the opening of the Southern ports and recommending that no crep of cotton be seeded the ensuing year.

R. M. T. Hunter is censured by the correspondent of the Examiner for wishing to resign as place in the Cabinet to avoid the trials which possibly await the Administration.

The Examiner says intelligence, apparently better founded than that which generally finds its way from Washington, has been received, of an intention on the part of the military authorities of the United States to make an advance upon the lines of the Potomac and risk another general engagement within the next ten days.

[Special to the N. Y. Herald.] FORTRESS MONROE, Dec. 17.
Via Baltimore, Dec. 18th —A flig of truce has yinst come from Norfolk. The greatest excitement prevails in Richmond and Norfolk in regard to the rews from England. How the news reached Richmond I am unable to say, but they had the news this morning all over the South. A great many people, it is said, will go against England should she interfere in the affair and demand Manager and Slidell. son and Slidell. The Union spirit is evidently awakening.

Captain Seymour and Mr. Adams's messengel arrived about midnight. The President will rend a message to the Senate on the subject of our reations with Great Britain, which will be considered in Executive session to-morrow. A rumor sailant that the Government has decided to return Mayon and Siidell, but we are satisfied that this is untrue. The Africa will carry to England a despatch from Lord Lyons containing little more than the intelligence that he has received more than the intelligence that he has received and delivered to the American Government his instructions from the Foreign Office.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs has the question of establishing diplomatic relations with Liberia and Hayti under advisement, and will report favorably at an early day.

[Special to the N. Y. Herald.] Washington, Dec. 18.

From the numerous depatches which have been received here to day, there is a fear expressed among the people in different parts of the country that the Government may be induced by some diplomacy to give the traitors up. I have the highest authority for saying that the probability of their surrender under any necessity does not now exist. The President is firm and impossible on this point. There was but one sentiment, that no A Cabinet meeting was held to-day at which the English question was discussed, of course informally. There was but one sentiment, that no quarrel with England must be permitted to interfere at this moment to stay the reduction of the rebels. I have the best authority for saying that the demands of England will be met in a spirit of conciliation which will refute the report that Mr. Seward, or any other member of the Cabinet, has been eager to provoke a foreign war.

FORTRESS MONROE, Dec. 18. FORTERS MONDOE, Doc. 18.

The steamer S. R. Spaulding, which left Port Royal last Sunday, arrived at an early hour this morning. She stopped at Hatteras, leaving that place yesterday. She brings a mail and passengers. Everything is quiet at Hatteras. Nothing has happened to disturb the usual monotouy except the usual storms.

The schooner Charity, said to be owned by Senator Simmons, of R. I., arrived at Hatteras on the 15th inst., with an assorted cargo, including a large proportion of whisky. She also took a collector to Hatteras. On arriving he procured a building from the commissary which he pro-

THE CHARLESTON FIRE. - The New York Times thus alludes to the recent great fire in Charleston:

From the location of the different buildings From the location of the different buildings mentioned as being burnt, it is certain that the fire was of vast extent, and that it must have destroyed the greater portion of the business section of the city. From Hazel street, on the north, where the fire began, southward to Broad street, which it was crossing on Thursday night, is nearly half a mile; and from the Bay, on the eastern side of the city, to Mazyck street, on the westward, which are the boundaries it had then attained in these directions, is nearly as far. Withward, which are the boundaries it had then attained in these directions, is nearly as far. Within these limits are comprised the major part of the wholesale warehouses and general business stores, the public buildings, churches, banks, hotels, halls, the market, the theatre, &c; and there is also a resident population, amounting to at least seven thousand, scattered through this state. art of the city.

In some of the burnt streets, as East Bay street In some of the burnt streets, as East Bay street, State, Church, Chalmers, Queen, King, etc., the houses are very old, and many of them of wood, while on Board, Meeting, Hayne, and other burnt streets, there are many very superb business and public buildings, which have been eracted within the last ten years. If the fire, after crossing Broad street, spread much further southerly, it must have sweet away nearly all the commercial Broad street, spread much further southerly, it must have swept away nearly all the commercial and trading portions of Charleston, including the fine residence on the lower part of Reering street, and the palatiat edifices on the Battery. All those abominable sinks of fifth and infamy in the vicinity of Tradd and Elliot strees, too (t Charleston "Five Points"), must have been d stroyed. The business and trading heart of t city, the residences of the proud and wealth and of the poor and deprayed, as well as hundre f negro shanties, are embraced within the regi ver which, so far as can be judged, the fire had extended up to Thursday night.

Of the public baildings within the lines of the or the public bolidings within the lines of the fire, are nearly all the banks, the newspaper-offices, churches, halls, etc; and our latest advices leave it burning on the verge of the court-house, the guard house (in which some national prisoners are yet confined), old St. Michael's Church and the great Rober Hospital. It is probable the magnitude of the real question likely to be presented, to-wit: the supply of $275,000,000 to the Treasury between the 1st of January and the 30th of June on the specie basis, which the proceedings of last night have declared to be the policy of the bucks, will be profoundly appreciated by a general, generous, and enlightened concert with the Government. Mr. Macfarland, rector of St. Mark's Protestant Episcopal Church, West Lombard street, died suddenly on Sunday evening whilst officiating in the sacred edifice. He had preached the sermon, holding the service book and reading therefrom, while the collection was being taken up. Suddenly the book was observed to fall from his hands, and in a moment the divine fell backward in a fit of apoplexy, to the great consternation and alarm of the congregation, a number of whom left their seats and rushed forward to the chancel to assist their pastor. He was lifted up and carried into the vestry room, and physicians summoned, but their aid was unavailing, though he lived two hours in an unconscious state.
